

STEEL BUILDER REVEALS THREAT

Contractor Says Mills Shut Off Supply Because He Used Union Men

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(Continued from page 13.)—The steel industry in New York and many other cities have been driven out of the structural steel erecting business by the iron league—the National Ironworkers' association—was given today by Paul Starrett, president of the league, a full and complete account of the joint legislative committee investigating the "building trust."

The Starrett company, one of the largest construction companies in the United States, he declared, could not buy any steel for its own erection and the company had been forced to quit erecting about a year ago.

Starrett declared that an official of the iron league notified him "they had no steel" and he could not get any steel unless his company observed the "league's open shop" policy.

The witness declared that union structural iron workers were 35 to 37 per cent more efficient than non-union workers, and their employment reduced construction costs. These, he added, were considerably increased because of the necessity of paying a member of the iron league to do erection work, instead of the company itself doing the work.

Asserting appeals to the Bethlehem steel company to meet union men on equal terms, the witness told of a conference with Eugene Grace, president of the company, and Charles Schwab at which he was warned that he was "getting in bad" with the steel manufacturers because he hired union men.

FAKE MINISTER HELD FOR WORTHLESS CHECKS

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 14.—Alexander G. Patterson of Chicago, alias George A. Thompson, who posed here as a Baptist minister of New York City, was arrested Monday on complaint of the Rev. L. F. Galois of the Nazarene church, who charged he had cashed a worthless check for Patterson.

Patterson admitted the check drawn on a Washington, D. C., bank was worthless and that he had no money there, the police say. According to an alleged confession to the police, Patterson gave worthless checks for $800 in Washington, D. C., last November and also passed long checks since for $200 in Fort Wayne, Ind., and for $200 in New York City.

Patterson was a speaker at a local business men's club meeting here last week and created a favorable impression. He had offered to give $1000 to a church building fund of the Nazarene church. When arrested he was planning to leave for Mexico through El Paso, according to the police.

He is 35 years old and says that he had lived in Chicago for the last eight years where he has a divorced wife.

DENTON CHECKS FORGED, SAYS ADMINISTRATION

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—Friendly suit to determine if signatures of Jacob Charles Denton, wealthy mining promoter, upon the checks for sums totaling $135, cashed for Jacob Charles Denton, his alleged murderer, were genuine, was filed in the superior court here Monday against the Farmers and Merchants National bank of Los Angeles. The suit was filed by Judge Avery, special administrator of the Denton estate.

Mrs. Denton, now in the Los Angeles county jail, awaiting trial, was said to have explained alleged peculiarities in the signature by stating the mining man's right arm was injured and he had written the checks with his left hand.

Judge Avery contends the signatures are forged and that the bank owes the Denton estate the total amount of the two checks.

HERE IS TEXT OF SENATOR BORAH'S RESOLUTION CALLING FOR ARMAMENT AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The text of Senator Borah's resolution on armament follows:

"Whereas, a representative and official of the Japanese government has advised the world that the Japanese government cannot consent even to consider a program of disarmament on account of the naval building program of the United States; and

"Whereas, by this statement the world is informed and is expected to believe that Japan sincerely desires to support a program of disarmament but cannot do so in safety to herself on account of the attitude and building program of this government; and

"Whereas, the only navies whose size and efficiency requires the consideration of this government in determining the question of the size of its navy are those of Great Britain and Japan, two governments long associated by an alliance; and

"Whereas, the United States is now and has ever been in favor of a practical program of disarmament;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States in congress assembled, that the president of the United States is requested, if not incompatible with the public interests, to advise the governments of Great Britain and Japan respectively, that this government will at once take up directly with these governments and without waiting the action of any other nation, the question of disarmament, with a view of quickly coming to an understanding by which the building programs of each of these governments, on-wit, of Great Britain, Japan and the United States, shall be reduced annually during the next five years to 50 per cent of the present rate.

"Second, that it is the sense of the congress that in case such an understanding can be reached, that it will conform in its appropriations and building program to such an agreement.

"Resolved, further, that this plan is suggested by the congress of the United States in order to bring about a substantial reduction in the naval armament of the world.

Senator Borah said privately that in introducing his resolution he acted only upon his own initiative, but that several senators had expressed their hearty approval of his plan. The Idaho senator also said that he would urge early action on the resolution by the foreign relations committee, probably next week.

"It calls for direct action with the only powers concerned," said Senator Borah. "It would develop whether Great Britain and Japan are sincere in the talk about reducing armaments. If they are not we can not tolerate them."

WOMAN POLICE LEADER RESIGNS OF 'SLAVE' LAWS

N. Y. Department Hampered Her Protection of Girls, Mrs. O'Grady Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Ellen O'Grady, deputy police commissioner of New York City has resigned, asserting that she had been hampered in her work and could not remain in her place and retain her self-respect. Her action followed attacks on the efficiency of the department made by several newspapers.

Mrs. O'Grady, who declared she had a thousand and one things to tell about the police department later on, said in her statement:

"I have heard that my work is 'too strenuous' looking after the morals of girls in moving picture houses and told to 'go slow'."

"When my detectives went to enforce the law in a number of moving picture houses, the managers showed them receipts stating that they had contributed to the police hospital fund, and they had been promised that no police action would be taken against them."

Mrs. O'Grady charged that no attention had been paid to complaints lodged with the bureau of missing persons, and that she had been unable to take action for this work because they had been taken from her for the police hospital drive.

WATCHES WHITE SLAVERS.

Mrs. O'Grady's resignation will take effect immediately. She was appointed in 1913 by Commissioner Enright. At that time he issued a statement saying that her time "would be particularly devoted to the investigation of the white slave traffic."

Mrs. O'Grady's daughter, Florence, who was her assistant secretary, also resigned and both walked out together.

Commissioner Enright immediately placed another commissioner in Mrs. O'Grady's office to "see that nothing was taken out of them," Mrs. O'Grady said.

HER EXPLANATION.

Mr. Enright, in a statement, denied ever having interfered with Mrs. O'Grady's work on enforcement of the law in motion picture houses, asserting that never had he given her orders on the subject.

"Mrs. O'Grady did not resign," the commissioner added, "she just bounced into my office, threw her police shield on my desk and said, 'I am through.' Before I had time to ask her what it was all about she left the place."

"Of course," he continued, "I am not going to enter into any discussion with a woman."

GOLD MINING ON COAST EBBING TRAGEDY SIGNS FOUND IN NORTH

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—Gold mining, an industry which virtually brought California into existence, has reached the lowest ebb in the history of the state, Fletcher Hamilton, state mineralogist, announced here recently, after a tour of the state.

"One appears to be traveling in the wake of a pestilence," Mr. Hamilton said, "in visiting the mining districts where the industry was founded and from where nature's golden harvest has been poured forth for the past 79 years."

Towns and whole counties are being depopulated. Mines are being allowed to fill in with water and mill race reduction plants are being abandoned to the elements.

Mr. Hamilton pointed out that gold production has decreased because the price of gold has never joined the upward rush of other precious metals. The gold miner, he said, receives no more for his product than he did fifty years ago.

Damage of the McFadden bill before congress, providing for an excise tax of $10 an ounce on new gold used in manufactured articles, was advocated by Mr. Hamilton as one means of stimulating gold production. The tax would be given to the gold miners, according to the bill.
